About the seminar
This Seminar primarily attempts to scrutinize, comprehend and elucidate the contribution of the science of psychology to nation building and the entire process of national development in India. Psychologists have imperative involvements to make to the debate on national development on the whole since human development is now viewed as central to national growth.

The complexity and diversity of Indian culture and the problems of urbanization, modernization and westernization necessitates need for psychologists who can skillfully examine and propose solutions for educational, social, psychological, health and other related problems affecting developing countries like India.

Hence policy makers, educationists and researchers should enrich the research base for psychological investigations through use of proper methodological designs suitable for Indian context in turn leading to wide-ranging solutions to ensuing problems. The challenge and role of psychology for development in India cannot therefore be over emphasized

Objectives of seminar
1. To create awareness about psychological issues related to national development.

2. To explain from a psychological perspective about the significant role of economic development for both individual and national development.

3. To understand the legal system in our country and its influence on the psychological health.

About the university
During the dawn of 1920s in British-India, the farsighted and noble-hearted philanthropist and patron of letters, Hon’ble Dr. Rajah Sir S. R. M.
